NOT ONE FALSE NOTE

By LOU LUMENICK

Rating: ★★☆☆☆

November 1, 2006 -- IN an era when almost all documentaries are shot on ugly digital video, Mark Becker's "Romantico" is beau tifully realized on old-fashioned film. And that's only part of its charms.

The unlikely subject is Camelo Sanchez, a 57-year-old mariachi musician who ekes out a living performing with his partner, Arturo Arias, at Mexican restaurants in San Francisco, moonlighting in a car wash during the day.

During the 31/2 years covered by this documentary, Sanchez returns to his native Mexico for the first time in years.

But the heartbreaking reality - his sorrows expressed through his songs more than anything else - is that he can't continue supporting his family with odd jobs unless he returns to the United States. "Romantico" is my bueno.

ROMANTICO Running time: 80 minutes. Not rated (nothing offensive). At the IFC Center, Sixth Avenue and Third Street.
